Lumir Mission STUDY

A Guide for Healthcare Practitioners

Help Us Build Real-World Knowledge About How Medicinal Cannabis Affects Health and Wellbeing

The Lumir Mission Study, being run in Australia, the United States, and United Kingdom, is a world-first, and aims to understand patient experiences with different types of medicinal cannabis products, and what characteristics of medicinal cannabis products (e.g. terpenes, ratio and amount of THC:CBD) are associated with better outcomes for a range of medical conditions and associated symptoms.

The study is open to anyone aged 18 years or over who is using medicinal cannabis products prescribed by a doctor or nurse practitioner for any health condition or symptom management. The study is also open to those interested in exploring medicinal cannabis – we have Lumir Mission telehealth doctors available for consults, and you can refer a patient by emailing hello@lumirmission.com, having them complete the pre-screening tool at lumirmission.com, or you can call the study team on 1300 378 942 during business hours.

INTENDED OUTCOMES

The Lumir Mission Study is being conducted in Australia, the United States, and the United Kingdom, across four years and with up to one million patients. Study findings will help us build a greater understanding of if, and how, medicinal cannabis impacts health and wellbeing, and which cannabis medicines are more or less effective for different conditions and symptoms, about how medicinal cannabis impacts condition and symptom relief, pain, anxiety, sleep quality, mood, energy levels, and overall health. The study also examines changes in pharmaceutical use, and side effects (positive and negative) of medicinal cannabis use.

Knowledge gained will help guide the future development of new cannabis products targeted to specific conditions or symptoms and inform future care pathways for patients worldwide. Study findings will support consumers and medical professionals to make confident and informed decisions regarding the choice and dosage of medicinal cannabis products that are best suited to manage a range of conditions and associated symptoms; ensuring cannabis care is evidence-based, and globally informed.

YOUR ROLE IN THE LUMIR MISSION

As a participating healthcare professional, you're contributing to groundbreaking longitudinal research that will help establish evidence-based approaches to medicinal cannabis prescribing. Your patient referrals and clinical insights are invaluable to understanding real-world outcomes and optimising treatment protocols. You can expect to be kept up to date on regular research updates and preliminary findings, formulary information, and ongoing opportunities to be involved.

HOW TO REFER A PATIENT

- Non-cannabis Prescribers:
  Email hello@lumirmission.com, or call 1300 378 942 and the study team can arrange an appointment with one of our experienced Lumir Mission doctors.
- Cannabis Prescribers:
  Have the patient complete the pre-screening questionnaire at lumirmission.com – it only takes three minutes! The patient can nominate you as their current prescriber here, and we will contact you with further information including a copy of the study formulary.

Thank you for your commitment to advancing medicinal cannabis research. Together, we're building the evidence base that will improve patient outcomes, patient experience, and inform clinical practice into the future.
